Description / Abstract

The GWP's Gender Action Piece (2017) outlines the key ingredients needed to support gender equality and inclusion in water resources management and sectoral water uses (including WASH) and provides recommendations on how to draw on these key ingredients.

It is based on a literature review, interviews with 14 global experts, and a high-level workshop with 25 experts in the water management sector. Overall, 39 people were consulted from 25 leading organizations in water governance, water management, gender equality, and inclusion policy and practice.

The aim of this Action Piece is to demystify how organizations can take initial and necessary steps towards increasing gender equality. It is also a call to action and confirms the commitment of GWP to promote and champion gender equality in water resources management.
