

RESOURCE

A human rights-based approach to tackling corruption in the water sector

|

Author(s)

Baillat, Aline

Description / Abstract

The objective of this brief is to introduce a human rights framework for water integrity and transparency. This will strengthen the capacities of public authorities and civil society organisations to address water transparency effectively, while fulfilling a mandate on the human right to water and complying with human rights obligations. The right to safe drinking water and sanitation was recognised in 2010 by the General Assembly of the United Nations and the Human Rights Council. The resolutions of these two institutions serve as a reminder to states that equal access to safe drinking water and sanitation for all is a national priority.

Publication year

2013

Publisher

WaterLex

Thematic Tagging

Water services

Language English

View resource

Related IWRM Tools

● Tool

Water Integrity and Anti-corruption

B1.05

Source <https://iwrmaactionhub.org/resource/human-rights-based-approach-tackling-corruption-water-sector>
URL: